RSIPF Crime Prevention Department thanks Honiara residents

The Royal Solomon Islands Police Force (RSIPF) National Crime Prevention Department wishes to acknowledge the mutual relationship created between all the settlements in and around Honiara as a way forward for peace and prosperity for the country's capital city. The same acknowledgement goes to all the hard working crime prevention committee members throughout the nation

Director of the National Crime Department Superintended Solomon Sisimia says, "I would like to thank all Honiara residents and other urban centers for cooperating with your police resulting in the peace and prosperity in our city during the 36 hours lock down period last week."

"For Honiara city, the partnership was manifested through the good behavior of members of the community during the lockdown period resulting in no major incident. Polis blo u will continue to engage with the communities through dialogue and partnership engagements."

"The RSIPF once again appeals to all the communities in and around Honiara city and throughout the nation to surrender all illegal kwaso cooking equipment to the police as a way forward for peace and harmony among our communities. Let us all follow the examples of both the Taba'a and Burns Creek Mosquito communities in Honiara who recently surrendered kwaso cooking equipment to the police. This action can only be for the betterment of our children, women and everybody," says National Crime Prevention Department Director Superintendent Sisimia.
