Police arrest suspect for break-in incident in Honiara

Officers of the Royal Solomon Island Police Force (RSIPF) at Naha Police Station have arrested a suspect of a break-in incident at the University of South Pacific campus construction site at King George VI on the 22 April 2022.

It was alleged that the suspect entered the USP construction site through the main gate. He walked easily to the main office and opened the sliding window glass, entered the office room, and removed valuable items worth about $30,000.00 dollars plus other stuff like cigarettes and beers.

Provincial Police Commander (PPC) Honiara City Police, Chief Superintendent Jimson Robo says, "That out of all the stolen items only one mobile phone has been recovered so far after the incident."

PPC Robo says, "The suspect is now under Naha Police Custody and will be remanded to appear in Honiara Central Magistrates' Court on a later date."
