RSIPF Officers Attend Regional Social Media Capability Development Forum in Fiji

The Royal Solomon Islands Police Force (RSIPF) is proud to have two officers from its Media Unit traveling to and attending the Social Media Capability Development Forum in Suva, Fiji.

The forum, held from 30 March to 1 April 2026, is an initiative of the Pacific Community for Law Enforcement Cooperation (PCLEC) in partnership with the Fiji Police Force (FPF).

It brings together media and communications officers from across the Pacific to strengthen digital engagement and strategic communication in policing.

Representing RSIPF at the forum are Officer in Charge of the Media Unit, Desmond Rave, and Theresa Satu. Both officers play key roles in delivering strategic communications for the organization.

The training will be facilitated by Fiji Police Force (FPF) and will include practical sessions focused on developing community awareness campaign materials addressing Transnational Serious Organized Crime (TSOC).

Fijian Media Association and Pacific Islands News Association will also form part of the capability training as facilitators.

The forum also provides a valuable platform for building a regional network of media officers, supporting a collaborative “by the Pacific, for the Pacific” approach to policing communications.

This engagement reflects the RSIPF's continued commitment to strengthening its media and communications capability and enhancing public engagement through effective use of social media platforms.
